Animal Check-In Procedure

For detailed information on health guidelines, please refer to the 2024 Green County Junior Fair Book found online at 2024 Animal Health Regulations. State health regulations require that ALL dairy animals that are exhibited at cattle shows in Wisconsin MUST be accompanied by some type of identification. Identification may be in the form of registration papers, a tattoo from a breed association, a metal Wisconsin ear tag, or any herd tag. It is against state health regulations to bring animals that are infected with ringworm, warts, or mange to the Green County Dairy Days Cattle Show.
